EMBROIDERY

Designs or logos are sewn directly onto garments using multi-head embroidery equipment. Contemporary embroidery is stitched with a computerised embroidery machine using digitised embroidery software. Each head can hold up to nine colours. Multi-coloured designs are charged the same as single coloured designs. Depending on the amount of heads and needles on the machine, designs can use up to fifteen colours.

DIRECT TO GARMENT

State-of-the-art decorating technique used to print the digital image directly onto the garment, using inkjet technology. The speciality inks are absorbed by the fibres of the garment. Unlike heat/iron-on transfers, DTG printing creates a vibrant image with good durability and washability. No set-up costs. No minimum quantities. No charge for multiple colours.

SCREEN PRINTING

Tried-and-true decorating technique that involves digitally etching designs onto mesh screens via a light-sensitive emulsion. Screens are mounted onto a press and ink is forced through the mesh directly onto the fabric and then cured under high temperatures. Each colour in the design requires an individual screen. Once all screens are printed, the design comes to life.

SUBLIMATION

Dye sublimation printing is a process used to print on polyester or other synthetic fabrics. Large printers with specially formulated inks are used. A reverse image of the final design is printed onto coated, heat-resistant transfer paper and then transferred onto polyester fabric using a heat press.

Suitable Vic Bay Garments: Dry fit T-shirt, Dry Fit polo.

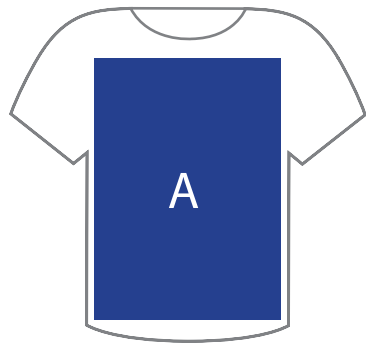

HEAT TRANSFER

A digital print is printed onto special vinyl and is then transferred onto the fabric, using a heat press. Transfers are printed with a large format printer, using solvent-based inks. They are then cut out by the machine, lined up onto the fabric, and pressed into place.

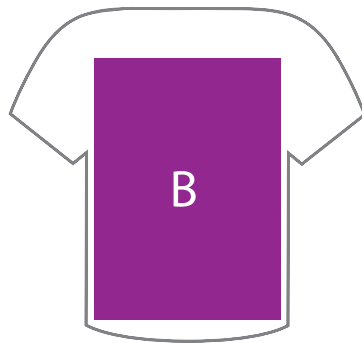

Suitable Vic Bay Garments: Heavyweight T-shirt, Lightweight T-shirt, Platinum T-shirt, Fitted T-shirt, V-Neck T-shirt, Long Sleeve T-shirt, Dry Fit T-shirt, Vest, Racerback, Polo, Sweater, Hoodie, Full Zip Jacket.

If you are looking for a specific colour that is not in our standard range, request a custom colour to suit your particular garment needs. (Available on demand)

1 Customer to supply us with a fabric swatch or Pantone code of the requested colour.

2 Customer to select a Vic Bay garment style of choice. We will inform you of the minimum order quantity for the style selected.

3 Once the custom-colour swatch is approved and 50% deposit paid, we will go ahead with the production of the order.

At Vic Bay, we believe in conserving our environment for future generations. Our philosophy is to reduce reliance on high-cost fossil fuels and to lower energy and water usage in manufacturing by investing in the latest technology. This allows Vic Bay to provide a better product at a lower price.

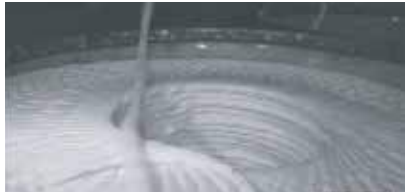

All our garments are made at a vertically integrated factory in the Western Cape. We are committed to creating value and sustainability throughout our manufacturing process. From the sourcing of cotton to the delivery of our garments, we constantly monitor and improve processes, enhancing the locally-manufactured value chain.

SPINNING

Spinning involves a series of machines that turn compacted, ginned cotton into yarn. The compacted bale is first beaten and picked, to loosen the cotton into a more manageable state. It is then carded to straighten and smooth the ginned fibres into a sliver - an even, consistent rope.

After creating a sliver of consistent thickness. Multiple slivers are combined to produce a very thick rope of fibre, which is then thinned and twisted, creating yarn. After twisting, yarn is wound around bobbins.

KNITTING

During the knitting process, spun yarn is turned into cloth by pulling loops, called stitches, through one another. To achieve superior quality, cotton is circularly knit, creating a seamless tube for the body.

Circular knitting is accomplished by cylinder knit machines. Because this knit method creates a tube without side seams, it requires a separate tube of cloth be knit for every garment size.

DYEING

After the cloth is knit, it must be 'finished' to wash out any particulate matter, bleached or dyed to a consistent colour, pre-shrunk to international standards and finished to give a soft hand feel. Some fabrics are bleached white with hydrogen peroxide during the preparation process.

CUTTING

The cutting process involves cutting the bodies and sleeves out of the tube of fabric received from the finisher. Our state-of-the-art automatic cutting machines are used to ensure fast and accurate cutting of garments.

Fabric is typically cut several stacks at a time with modified jigsaws, allowing for a large number of pieces to be created simultaneously. The cut bodies and sleeves are then tied together and sent for sewing. Ribbed fabric for the shirt collars is also cut for each body size during this phase.

SEWING & DISTRIBUTION

Sewing is the last step in the construction of the shirt, and is the most labour intensive. After receiving the bodies, sleeves, and collars from the cutter, the machinists use an array of sewing machines to attach each piece via a batch assembly line. Once the garments have been made up, they get quality checked, folded, packed and sent to our four Vic Bay branches around South Africa.

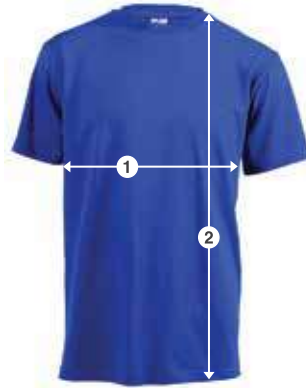

Measurement 1 (Width) measures across the bust 2cm below the armhole.

Measurement 2 (Length) is measured from the highest point of the shoulder to the bottom hem of the shirt.
